THE CHOO CHOO CHORUS

The Choo Choo Chorus is the Chattanooga Chapter of the Barbershop Harmony Society. Barbershop harmony is a truly American art form. One of its distinctive features is an expanded sound which produces overtones or “extra” voices. For 52 years the chorus has performed four-part a cappella barbershop singing for civic centers, retirement communities, and private group gatherings in the greater Chattanooga area. The chorus is composed of men of varying backgrounds, who enjoy singing, expressing their inner “ham”, and the chance to make people happy. Funds from Chorus Christmas events are donated to an annually chosen local charity.

BILL MCCALLIE

Bill McCallie, whose stage experience includes television and Nashville's "The Grand Ole Opry;" two time National guitar champion Roy Curry, bassist and tenor vocalist Keith Mahan; and Dave Summers, formerly of Danny Shirley, "Confederate Railroad," and "The Forrester Sisters." Residents in and around the Chattanooga area may be familiar with McCallie's weekly public radio show the "Cowboy Jubilee." Bill has appeared for years 13 years at the National Cowboy Symposium in Lubbock Texas and at the Sherman Talent Roundup in Elko Nevada for 5 years. Some of McCallie's television commercials have run in several markets across the Southeast. In his early music career, and for over 17 yrs McCallie and his musicians have played 250 "one nighter" gigs a year, which can be a grueling schedule even without special projects. McCallie and his band ,InCahoots present their music each week on the Southern Belle River Boat. In Cahoots Band had been with the Southern Belle for over 19 years.

McCallie's radio career began some 18 years ago with WSMC Public Radio in Chattanooga.

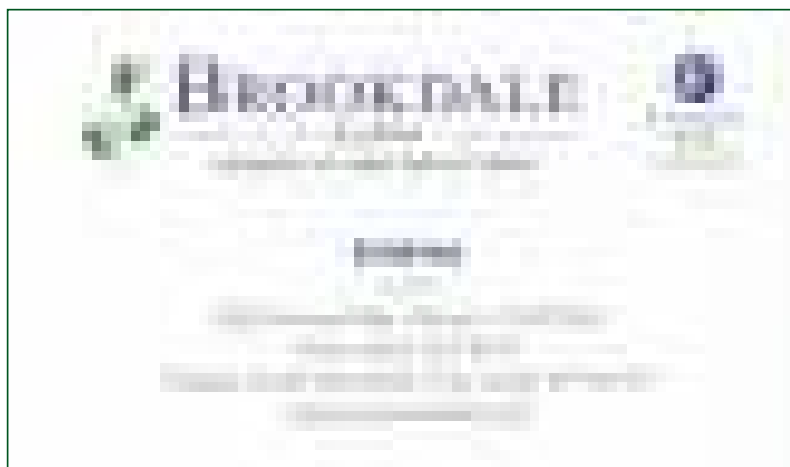

Having a deep love for Americana and it's music, McCallie launched the Cowboy Jubilee Radio Show.

McCallie takes great pride each week in presenting programs that are informative, entertaining, thought provoking and historically correct

CHATTANOOGA AREA FLUTE SOCIETY FLUTE CHOIR

The Chattanooga Area Flute Society (CAFS) was founded in 1985 and is comprised of adult flutists of all levels in the Chattanooga area. They use all sizes of flutes from the smallest (piccolo), the small treble flute, alto flutes, and bass flutes, to their recently acquired contrabass flute. Its primary focus recently has been as a performing flute choir, known now as the Chattanooga Area Flute Choir, and has performed at several churches as well as the Tennessee Aquarium for the Caroling with the Fishes and Rock City for the Enchanted Garden of Lights during the Christmas season. They have performed at three National Flute Association conventions in 1999, 2004 and 2011. Several of its members took part in two concerts in Scotland, performing joint concerts with the Carluke (Scotland) Flute Band, the first in 2006, and again in 2009. They give an annual Irish concert in March as well as a formal spring concert in June. They made their NRCC debut in January 2018. They also sponsor an annual Flute Choir Camp in July for flutists of all ages. Its director and co-founder is Nora Kile and the assistant conductor is Sandy Morris.

TREMBLING TROUBADORS

"Preserving the voice and bringing awareness to Parkinson's disease one note at time."

Individuals at any stage of Parkinson's disease are welcome and can benefit from participation in the therapeutic choir.

No musical experience is required-only an enjoyment of singing!

Caregivers are welcome!

Research in Music Therapy has shown that singing can improve the PD patient's cognitive motor, sensorimotor and speech-language symptoms thus improving their quality of life. Choir is led by a Board Certified Music Therapist and participation compliments LSVT Loud® Therapy.

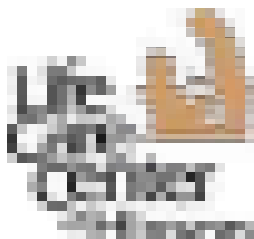

Please join us each Friday 2:00-3:00 PM at

JERICHO BRASS BAND

The Jericho Brass, a traditional British-style brass band, has been providing brass music in Chattanooga and surrounding communities since 1998. An all-volunteer ensemble, Jericho Brass is made up of professional and college trained musicians from the Tri-State area. The group performs regularly at civic functions, churches, schools and other public venues. Smaller "outreach" groups from the Jericho membership also perform at nursing homes, school assemblies, churches and libraries.

The band consists of 28 members. Instrumentation includes: cornets, flu-gelhorn, tenor horns, baritone horns, trombones, euphoniums, tubas and percussion.

In addition to the traditional brass band literature, Jericho Brass performs marches, orchestral transcriptions, popular tunes, hymns and sacred selections, as well as patriotic favorites. An extensive music library allows Jericho Brass to tailor programs to fit all audiences.

The band has performed all across the South, including concerts in Memphis, Greenville, SC, Charleston, WVA, and Atlanta. Jericho Brass has also made two concert tours to England, performing in Huddersfield, Bourne-mouth, London and Dublin, Ireland.

The difference is service.

Volumes could be written about the history of the Dismembered Tennesseans, the bluegrass band formed by famed east Tennessee fiddler and philanthropist Fletcher Bright with his school friends at Chattanooga's McCallie High School in 1947. "Singing from the heart through the nose' is an apt description of our group," says Ed "Doc" Cullis, an original member who is still picking with the group today.

One of the most influential bluegrass bands in the region, the Dismembered Tennesseans played, sang, and laughed their way across the country for more than 70 years and through numerous personnel changes until Fletcher's passing on Christmas Day, 2017. To some, it seemed that the band had finally run its course, but fate had other plans.

In spring 2019, original member Doc Cullis (banjo) and long-time band alumni Laura Walker (bass and vocals) and Don Cassel (mandolin and vocals) formed the NEW Dismembered Tennesseans, welcoming three new members: Bobby Burns (guitar and vocals), Fletcher's granddaughter, Eleanor Bright (clawhammer banjo, guitar and vocals) and Tom Morley (fiddle and vocals). Together, the new lineup has infused the band with new energy and a new sense of purpose, with a repertoire that both honors Fletcher and the original band and sends the music headlong into the future.

SWEET GEORGIA SOUND

In existence since 1994, Sweet Georgia Sound is a 20-member ensemble which provides Big Band Swing and dance music for weddings, parties, festivals, galas and other events. SGS is regularly featured at the Chattanooga Market, has made appearances at Chattanooga's Riverbend Festival and was the founding band and coproducer of Chattanooga's Swingfest. Most recently SGS was chosen to be the featured performer at the centennial celebration for the Hamilton County Courthouse.

SGS plays a variety of listening, dance and ballroom dance music that includes classic and modern big band, swing, Latin, and waltz tunes and features the vocal numbers of some of the greats like Frank Sinatra and Ella Fitzgerald. Sweet Georgia Sound is proud to be known as Chattanooga's Big Band.

Our mission is to champion our members' businesses and implement a comprehensive strategy to promote economic growth within our Councils footprint.
